

Real Estate Research Analyst Chicago Metro Area

Management Recruiters of Shorewood Hills' client is a stable, growing real estate firm that is in need a real estate research professional.

This individual will play a key role in gathering real estate market data and providing analysis for developing strategies. This is an opportunity for career and job growth and it includes access to working with top management.

Duties of the position are:

- Perform real estate research – both international and domestic
- Analyze data and markets for investment/portfolio management including economic and demographic trends
- Assist senior management and investment staff formulate strategy and analyze investments
- Provide data for quarterly reports
- Work with investment, development and dispositions departments
- Interpret and enhance database of global economic and real estate data
- Communicate findings of research and their impact on commercial real estate including writing research reports

Qualifications:

- Bachelors in Real Estate or Economics
- Graduate degree in Economics preferred
- Excellent analytical and quantitative skills
- 5 + years research experience (If PhD, may consider less)
- Expertise in statistics, analysis and quantitative skills
- Excellent verbal and writing skills
- Strong analytical skills
- Proficiency in modeling preferred
- Expertise in spreadsheets including advanced proficiency in Excel, data management and analysis

Contact: Pat Williams, Management Recruiters of Shorewood Hills 608 238-6040

Send resume in Word format to pwilliams@mr-shorewood-hills.com

Posted 5/8