

ROBERT H. LEDBETTER PROFESSOR OF THE PRACTICE OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT
COLLEGE OF MANAGEMENT
GEORGIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

The College of Management at the Georgia Institute of Technology is seeking candidates for a faculty position as the inaugural Robert H. Ledbetter Professor of Practice of Real Estate Development, starting fall 2009. We seek candidates with a substantial base of experience in the field of real estate with interest in teaching real estate courses to undergraduate and graduate students. In addition to service duties related to real estate offerings, the position calls for teaching four courses during the academic year. Salary offered will be competitive. We will begin reviewing applications March 1, 2009.

Georgia Tech's College of Management is, when considering MBA programs in all business schools, ranked 29th by U.S. News and by Business Week, and top 25 in Forbes among public schools. The College of Management (COM) is housed in a new, state of the art facility, which is part of the $260 million building complex of Technology Square in midtown Atlanta (including in addition to Georgia Tech's Business School, the GT Conference Center and Hotel, the Global Learning Center, the Economic Development Institute, and the Advanced Technology and Development Center (ATDC), one of the leading business incubators in the United States). COM is the home of an NSF Integrative Graduate Education and Research Training program, Technological Innovation: Generating Economic Results (TI:GER), as well as a US Department of Education funded Center for International Business Education and Research (CIBER). The College recently built a new high-tech, $1 million trading floor to prepare students for careers in investment banking and financial services.
